

Information for Contributors

1. All papers submitted to the first and second issues will be in English. Submitted papers to the third issue may be in English or Korean.
2. Submitted manuscripts should have a focus on linguistics and language teaching theory and practice.
3. Electronic submissions are preferred where possible. The text file should be written in MS-word and the length of the manuscript should not exceed 15~25 pages of Language Research.
4. Each manuscript should include an abstract of about 150 words and approximately 5 Keywords. The abstracts of the papers in this journal are regularly printed in Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts.
5. All illustrative material should be numbered consecutively. Tables, charts and complex diagrams should be provided in a camera-ready form.
6. All the Korea data should be romanized according to the Yale system.
7. Representation of references in the text should conform to the format in the following examples (Korean names should be represented with last names together with the initials of first names, e.g., H-h Lee for Hyeon-hie Lee, and J HS Yoon for James Hye Suk Yoon):

As can be seen in (1), English stress is sensitive to syllable weight. With the generalization in (1) as a basis, I review works by Halle and Vergnaud (1987), Halle (1998), and K-S Kim (1999).

He stated, "The 'placebo effect' disappeared ... when behavior was studied in this manner" (Smith 1982: 276).

8. Bibliographical references at the end of each paper should conform to the format in the following examples:

Anderson, Stephen R. and Paul Kiparsky, eds. (1973). A Festschrift for Morris Halle. Holt, Rinehart & Winston.

Keenan, Edward L. (1985). Passive in the world languages. In Timothy Shopen, ed., Language Typology and Syntactic Description I, 243-281. Cambridge University Press.

Lee, Chungmin. (1973). Abstract Syntax and Korean with Reference to English. Bumhan Book.

McCawley, James D. (1973). On identifying the remains of deceased clauses. Language Research 9.2, 73-83.

9. On the last page of the manuscript, the author should provide the author's name, affiliation, address and email address.
10. We cordially ask the corresponding author of each paper to pay processing fees to cover parts of publication expenses at Language Research. This fee schedule is effective on the publication of the issue 50, number 2 of Language Research.

1. Fees for peer-review: free (as before)
2. Fees for publication after acceptance: If the research is funded by a research grant, the fee is 200,000 won (USD 200); if the research is NOT funded by a research grant, the processing fee amounts to 100,000 won (USD 100).

11. Contributors are requested to send their manuscripts to: Editor of Language Research, Language Education Research Center, Language Education Institute, Seoul National University, 1 Gwanak-ro, Gwanak-gu, Seoul 151-742, Korea or by e-mail: lhrlbr@snu.ac.kr
